

WHEN YOU WASH YOUR HAIR DON'T USE SOAP

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is just plain mullet oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats soap or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

The line will be twenty miles long and will traverse a fertile farming territory as well as rich oil fields. The towns of Drumright and Depew have offered liberal bonuses for the proposed railroad. Much of the right of way has already been secured.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 17.—Governor Williams has concluded that he will not ask the attorney general for an opinion as to whether the law creating clerical positions in the office of clerk of the supreme court by omitting to designate who shall have power with the governor. CHIEF SAM'S MEN WOULD COME BACK

NEGROES WHO WENT TO GOLD COAST OF AFRICA PULLED A "BONEHEAD"

Boley, Okla., Aug. 17.—Rear Sir: I am enclosing you a letter from the secretary of the African movement in Oklahoma who is now in Africa. Of course he has got his share of the proceeds and the rest of the delegates who accompanied him there will have to return the best way they can and at present I have letters in my possession that the various delegates have sent back to their relatives asking for $150 to $300 to return home.

You will render the race a service to publish the enclosed letter so that many possibly who are inclined to invest in that company will see that it is useless. They have been robbed already of approximately $80,000. If they decide to go we want them to go independently and not let a few people rob them before leaving the shores of America.

The movement is a failure. The alleged chief will never return and the poor delegates who accompanied him are stranded and desire to return home at once.

Any note you make of this letter, if you cannot publish it in its entirety, will be highly appreciated. Thanking you in advance for same, I am,

Yours truly,

GEORGE W. PERRY.

(The following letter received by J. H. McRiley from M. A. Sorrel about the ship verifies our prediction in its entirety that the ship would never return to America.)

Accra, Gold Coast, West Africa, July 4, 1915. Mr. J. H. McRiley, esq., Boley, Okla. Dear sir: This comes to inform you that I am well and I hope that you and family are well. I have had many times I think of little Calena, but I ease my mind as best I can, knowing that I am too far away to see her. I hope she is well. I know that Mrs. McRiley is a good mother for Calena.

Well, I have traveled over some of the world and seen many things of every shape and form. I do not regret the time and cost. I have seen and observed much of the work of God and man. I have seen all the principal towns and cities of the gold coast, I have seen along the railroad between Secondee and Comassee, not only a fine and beautiful country, but rich in lands, timber (mahogany), rubber and gold. You can see the great gold mines from the train, much machinery in operation getting out the gold. I stayed four weeks in Comassee, which is the capital of Ashanti, a beautiful city, population 20,000, fine climate and good water. Secondee, also at Axim, another seaport town. The chief city of the Gold Coast; population over 22,000. Accra is a beautiful city. Electric lights, waterworks, telephone, etc. Autos and fine traps and carriages are very common in Accra. I enclose a card picture, which shows just a corner of the city. There are thousands of educated negroes in Accra, who are engaged in all kinds of business; hundreds of them are employed in government service in all departments. There are many big hotels and great races are held on the track. Cattle, goats, chickens and I have been in the banks. I am planning my headquarters.

It would like to see you. Owing to coal, American consular disapproval.

How to Beautify a Summer Soiled Face

It's really a simple matter to renovate a face soiled by sun, wind or dirt. Ordinary unsifted wash, used like cold cream, will transform the worst old complexion into one of snowy whiteness and velvety softness. It literally peels off the outer veil of surface skin, but so gently, gradually, there's no discomfort. The worst skin comes off, not in patches, but evenly in this particle, leaving no evidence of the treatment. The complexion, healthy, uniform, glowing, the new complexion, is one of soft, velvety whiteness. One-ounce of unsifted wash, to be used at any dressing, is enough to remove any summer, reddened, pimpled, freckled or blotchy skin. Apply before retiring, washing it off tomorrow.

Many skin wrinkles caused with every wind that blows with heat, worry, etc. An excellent wrinkle-remover, because it softens the skin and strengthens relaxed muscles. It is a wash, rather than a cream. Powdered masticote, 1 oz., dissolved in water, makes it up. This gives immediate results.

Mormons Hear of Plot to Kidnap Church Head

NIGHTLY CLEANING IS OFTEN NEGLECTED, MOST IMPORTANT OF ALL

Did you ever stop to think that good care of the toothbrush is almost as essential as good care of the teeth? Yet how few persons really take the proper care of either. No woman a good face so quickly as a man, and the man or woman who has any regard for his appearance will watch both his brush and his teeth.

It never pays to invest in a cheap toothbrush. In the first place, a bad set of bristles leave their work half done. They have not the necessary stiffness and resistance to clean the teeth well. Then the bristles in a cheap brush are not well fastened, and are apt to fall out. This makes a cheap toothbrush a real menace, for if the bristles come loose in the mouth they are apt to slip down the throat, catch there and decay, or they may pierce through the walls of the digestive tract.

Buy a good brush and then take care of it. Before you use a brush for the first time soak it in a weak solution of bicarbonate of soda for two hours. This not only serves to disinfect it from shop handling, but it sets the bristles so that they will not fall out so readily.

It is better not to use a toothbrush for a longer period than three weeks at a time, and it is wiser to keep two brushes going at once. In this way one can be drying out and airing while the other is in use. Be sure that the brush is well rinsed and thoroughly cleaned of all tooth paste or dirt before hanging it up to dry. Once a week let it boil in clear hot water about five minutes to kill any germs that may be lingering in the bristles, and to disinfect it well.

The teeth should be brushed after each meal, before retiring and upon arising in the morning. The nightly cleansing, so often neglected, is in reality the most important of all. It is essential to brush the teeth both inside and out before retiring, so that the food particles will not stay in the crevices and decay over night. Once a day, or twice at the most, is often enough to use tooth paste or powder. At other times wash the teeth with clear water.

Very often after a long illness it will be found that the teeth have begun to decay. This is usually laid down to the nature of the illness. In reality it is more often due to neglect of the teeth than to the ailment itself. During illness the teeth should be cleaned often, especially as they cannot be attended to by a dentist.

A good mouth wash, one which will help to harden the gums and will dissolve a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda (ordinary baking soda) in a pint of water. Bottle this and keep it on hand for use. Wash the mouth constantly with this soda solution during illness, as well as brushing them often, and you will find that the teeth troubles usually attributed to ailments will keep away from you.—L. D.

PASSENGER TRAIN STICKS IN THICK MOLASSES

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 17.—Passenger train No. 15, from New York on the Lackawanna railroad, was held up for two hours on the Pocono mountains today when the heavy driving wheels of the locomotive, stuck fast in a quantity of molasses on the tracks. The sticky fluid had leaked from a freight train that passed over the rails several minutes earlier. "Bad rail account molasses" is given by the railroad officials for the delay.

PEACH HARVEST ON AT MOUNT OLIVE

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM NORTH LOGAN; WEDDING BELLS WILL RING

Mount Olive may not be on the map or railroad, but it would be, if the peach season lasted very long. Five large peach orchards are located at this point. The one owned and managed by Peter Plagg is perhaps the largest of the five. The pickers, packers and teamsters employed on this farm during the last two weeks make up a small army.

The orchard purchased by W. H. Coyle & Co., of Guthrie, located just across the road from Mr. Plagg's orchard, may not boast of so many trees, but the peaches produced take second rank to none.

A large tent was erected at this orchard for the packer's comfort, who, when the crop was cared for, like the Arab, folded their tent and silently stole away.

The Donahue orchard lying just north of Plagg's is another one worthy of mention. This orchard has been under the management of Mr. Johnson for several years, and sent out some fine fruit this year.

The orchard owned and operated by John Burnett was also the scene of busy times the past week. Several hands were employed at this place as pickers, packers and haulers.

George Mitarche owns and operates the last of the five orchards located at the Mount of Olives. Mr. Mitarche has about three hundred trees and tries to take care of the fruit himself with the help of the boys.

All luck to these five plucky orchard men. May the returns from their respective peach crops cause their wallets to swell as big as a barrel.

It is said the wedding bells will ring ere long.
